Choosing a preschool for your child can feel like a daunting task. Depending on where you leave, your options might be limited or seem endless. Until now, those options were very limited in Venjaramoodu. But now it's becoming something with endless possibilities.

We believe that a child's first school experience should be filled with curiosity, exploration and opportunities for independence.

In our school they learn by experience, by examples, by formal instructions, and a million ways in between! They watch, listen, experiment and repeat.

Creativity is more than art and music. It means trying new things and looking at a challenge with a different perspective. Our classrooms are filled with the opportunity for creativity and imagination. Creativity in our classroom is about thinking outside the box.
